All,
Just want to clarify one point. There has been no date set for this and Trish will be coordinating arrangements with the camera person, including when she will be on site. Sorry for any confusion.

All -
I was able to have a conversation with Mick Kulik regarding the CNN request. Mick had spoken with them yesterday. Based upon Mick's conversation with CNN they are only proposing to film while at Dimock. There are no interviews planned. According to Mick the story that CNN is planning is not focused on Dimock but the generic issue of fracking. They want some footage of the wells being sampled and perhaps the water being delivered. I am advised this information was provided to HQ and they are comfortable with what CNN has indicated they want to do. That said, we all understand how things can change and want to make sure we are all on the same page here in the Region as well as in Dimock. My understanding is that CNN will be in Dimock on Monday, January 30. We should all contact our folks in the field to alert them of CNN's visit, what they have indicated they will be doing and reinforce that they should not be granting interviews with CNN. Thanks.
